

Roundtable on Digital Humanities

Marianne Buehler

Description: This session will be a discussion and follow-up to the plenary address by Dr. Schrijver. The members of the panel will share how they are using digital humanities and present some of their current projects.

Marianne A. Buehler is currently the Urban Sustainability Librarian and the Digital Scholarship@UNLV institutional repository administrator at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. She received an MA in Information Resources and Library Science at the University of Arizona and a BA in English from the University of Maine. Her applied research and publications are focused on scholarly communication, such as open access journal publishing, self-publishing, and copyright. She also engages in scholarly communication intersections within information literacy and archival materials. A natural progression is her interest in digital humanities and aspects of data curation. Her monograph, Demystifying the Institutional Repository for Success, was recently published.
